Hodding Carter Will Speak on Race Problems

Hodding Carter, brilliant fighting editor of the Greenville, Mississippi Delta Democrat-Times, who is speaking here at the second general assembly of the Teachers convention, Thursday evening, October 12, is not a crusader about racial tolerance on his shoulder about racial tolerance.

Preaches Tolerance.
As he explains in the foreword of his first novel Winds of Fear: "This story could have happened in almost any of the small towns of the South . . . and it might also be happening today in any other section of the country."

This outlook is summed up in Carter's statement of his objective, which is: "To show non-Southerners what is good about us and Southerners what is still bad about us."

While battling dishonesty and demagoguery within the South, Carter offers to "non-Southerners" an explanation of why the South wants to be left alone to deal with its great Negro problem. Carter himself has propounded a liberal approach in the face of strenuous opposition from such firmly entrenched reactionaries as the late Huey Long and Theodore Bilbo.

Fought Huey Long
In spite of his mild objective approach, Carter has often roused turbulence. His long warfare with Huey Long, as a newspaperman in New Orleans and as editor of his first daily, the Hammond, Louisiana, Courier, culminated in an edit from Long which forced Carter to sell his newspaper. During this period, Carter often slept with a gun under his pillow, and once, when threatened with death by a local office-holder, he went to church with a prayer book in one hand and a pistol in his pocket.

"In spite of a political flare-up now and then, perspectives are looking up down Mississippi way," Carter says. "It's always been a pleasant place: people friendly, climate mild, crowds not too maddening." But Carter is an exception to the somnolent atmosphere since he carries on a number of activities in high gear. In addition to putting out a daily newspaper, he has written thirty magazine articles since 1947 which have appeared in the country's leading publications. His three books, Winds of Fear (1944), Flood Crest (1947) and Southern Legacy (1950), won critical acclaim and widespread attention, and he writes a Sunday column for 15 Southern dailies and the Washington Post. His awards include a Neimen Fellowship for Newspapermen at Harvard, a Guggenheim Fellowship for creative writing, the Southern Literary Award for 1945 and Honorary Degrees from Harvard and Bowdoin.

Married and the father of three children, Carter has pursued his aims steadily, gaining a reputation as one of the country's finest liberal journalists and one of its greatest small town editors.

When the wife begins to describe the vacation to neighbors, hubby begins to wonder where he was all that time.

Sen. Mundt, Red Foe, Is Main Speaker

Karl E. Mundt, U. S. Senator from South Dakota and arch-foe of Communism, will be the main speaker at the third general assembly of the teachers meeting, Friday morning, October 13, speaking on "Today's Challenge to Our World."

Sen. Mundt is one of the outstanding statesmen and speakers of our time. Prior to his induction into the senate in January, 1949, he spent 12 eventful years as a congressman, where he was an important member of the foreign affairs and un-American activities committees.

try. He was acting chairman during the espionage hearings resulting in the discovery of the so-called "Pumpkin Papers."

In the senate he is a member of the senate committee on executive expenditures and its important subcommittee on senate investigations, as well as the District of Columbia committee.

Late in 1945, Sen. Mundt, as member of a special committee of the house committee on foreign affairs, spent sixty-three days making an economic and political study of Russia and Russian-dominated territories, Turkey and other Mediterranean countries. Since the committee was to report back to Congress on the merit of Russia's claim for UNRRA, his group was given unusual latitude in making inspection trips in Russia, all the way from Leningrad, at the extreme North to Baku on the Caspian Sea. This committee also was the first committee of Congress since 1939 to enter Russia—the only committee which ever spent any substantial time making unsupervised studies and conferring with leaders of the U. S. S. R.

Backed UNESCO It will be remembered that Sen. Mundt was the author of house resolution 215 passed by both Houses in 1945, conveying congressional approval for the establishment of an International Organization of Educational and Cultural Affairs. The spirit of this resolution later was written into the San Francisco Charter at the United Nations Conference. The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organizations (UNESCO) was the result. Karl Mundt also is one of the most active conservationists in Congress. For that reason he has been called upon by the Isaac Walton League to address their convention many times.

After receiving his B. A. degree at Carlton College and his M.A. degree at Columbia University, Mr. Mundt began an educational career. From 1923 to 1936, he was a high school teacher, superintendent of schools, chairman of the speech department and instructor of social sciences at Eastern State Teachers College, Madison, South Dakota. In 1936 he was elected to Congress and now serves the largest district and the largest population of any Congressman in the United States.

Ranked As Strong Speaker As a speaker, Karl Mundt handles his subject with rare wit and philosophy. He ranks as one of the strongest speakers in both Houses and is in constant demand by educational organizations, leading forums and business organizations. The 1944-45 edition of Representative American Speeches selected by A. Craig Baird, contains an address by Mundt entitled "Peace If We Want It." The other addresses under the heading, "American and National Defense," were by Admiral Ernest J. King and General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Spider Is 'Object Of Her Affection'

"E-e-e-ki!" "Help!"

The whole neighborhood must have thought a catastrophe was taking place in the Jack Donaldson household at 520 S. Vine.

Nothing that bad had occurred, although to Elvale, a Donaldson offspring, it was even worse. In fact, to her, it was as bad as it could be.

To start with, it seems that Elvale, who is deathly afraid of spiders or anything that has to do with the creatures, was presented a large rubber spider with wriggly legs by some friends.

After investigating and finding it quite harmless, she hung it in an obvious place to scare her visitors while she sat back and laughed at their fright.

Recently, Elvale looked at her "pet" and found some crawling object on it. To her complete surprise, a real spider, alive and crawling, had made a web and was living quite peacefully on her giant insect—Whether for companionship or protection is what Elva can't decide.

World Affairs To Be Topic of Vermont Man

Teachers at the first meeting of the thirty-third annual convention will hear Philip Cummings, world traveler and social analyst. In his subject, "American Leadership at the Mid-Century," he brings a penetrating analysis of current problems and responsibilities from a truly world point of view.

Widely Traveled
His material has come from observations and deductions during extensive actual experience while traveling the globe and visiting in the countries on four continents during recent years.

Born in northern Vermont, Philip Cummings has studied in Colleges as widely separated as Rollins College in Florida, Middlebury College in Vermont, the University of Dijon in France and the University of Madrid in Spain, also as a Fellow of the University of North Carolina. He feels that his real education began with the life abroad with his years in France and Spain and the experiences of the Revolution of 1931.

Philip Cummings

In subsequent years, no quarter of the globe has been too remote. He has traveled through the Never-Never back country of the Commonwealth of Australia, spent weeks with the friendly Polynesians in the islands of the Southwest and South Central Pacific, lived in the highland villages in Scotland, trekked across the Sahara and scaled Mountain peaks of Mexico. The summers of five years spent in Spain were devoted to the study of the life, habits and economics of the people of North Africa.

Is Popular Lecturer
Philip Cummings' basic understanding of world affairs has made him one of the most popular lecturers on the platform today. His background in the vital fields of the recent Global War have made him valuable to the United States Government as consultant on the South West Pacific area. His reputation has so grown that there are but few open dates on his season's calendar, months in advance.

The world events and problems now shaping the course of civilization for a generation or more, make the clear talk of Philip Cummings one of significance and value.

The distance around the equator is said to have shrunk over one and one-half miles in the past 100 years. Better plan some other trip.

General Marshall May Not Stay on as Defense Secretary

WASHINGTON—General Marshall has given a hint that he may remain as secretary of defense only a short time. The hint is a request to continue as head of the American Red Cross—despite the fact that at the age of 70 he occupies one of the most back-breaking jobs in the cabinet.

The reason given is that General Marshall has been a strong advocate of civilian defense, and has committed the Red Cross to several civilian defense programs on which he would like to follow through. Behind this, however, it is believed that the General may want to step out of the defense department some time next year and go back to the Red Cross.

The Red Cross board of governors will meet on November 18 to decide whether they will retain Marshall.

In the interim Marshall rates next to the President as the highest-paid public servant in the United States. His salary is $45,000 plus $6,000 for entertainment—total $51,000.

This is because Marshall now draws $22,500 as a cabinet member, plus another $22,500 as head of the American Red Cross, plus $6,000 for entertainment.

Even when head of the Red Cross alone and before he took the defense job, Marshall was one of the highest-paid public officials in the country, drawing $18,761 as a five-star general, plus $22,500 from the Red Cross, plus $6,000 for entertainment, or a total of $47,261.

Attempted Bribery

This column has sometimes been critical of the bureaucrats, but here is a tribute to a man whom the public probably has never heard of, William H. Kennedy, former assistant deputy commissioner of the alcohol tax unit.

Bill Kennedy retired the other day, after spending 30 faithful years with the government, and just before he retired it looked as if some of the big liquor companies were trying to pay him off.

For mysterious telegrams went out to whisky distillers asking that they send a series of presents to Bill Kennedy. The telegrams even informed the distillers what they should give Kennedy, as follows:

1. A maple bedroom suite.
2. An oriental rug of an exact room size to fit Kennedy's new home.
3. A complete silver set.
4. A new radio-television set.
5. A set of chinaware.
6. A Collie dog.

The telegrams were signed by "A. R. Reed" and sent from Philadelphia.

It happens to be against federal rules for anyone having business with the government to give presents to a government official. Furthermore it is not considered ethical to give expensive presents when an official retires. Therefore, Kennedy immediately sent telegrams to the distillers saying he knew nothing about the proposal to shower him with gifts and that he would not accept them if offered.

Kennedy also conferred with his fair-minded chief, Carroll Mealey, who sent investigators to the Western Union office in Philadelphia from which the wires were sent, to see who had suggested this series of indirect bribes. No one by the name of "A. R. Reed" could be located in Philadelphia, though investigators found that a man by that

Freshmen From Virginia Like College

Jeanne (right) and Mary Virginia Franken have arrived in Maryville to live with their aunts, the Misses Kathryn and Margaret Franken, instructors at Northwest Missouri State College. The late Mr. Ted O'Sullivan was an uncle of the girls. Jeanne and Mary are sisters from Burkville, Virginia, 30 miles from Richmond, Virginia and have entered the College here as freshmen.

In order to get here to register on time, the girls' father, Mr. Urban K. Franken, who is a vocational agriculture instructor in Burkville, drove 1350 miles in one day.

Jeanne and Mary Virginia are used to plantation life but to them, the strangest thing here is the Missouri speech. The girls are delighted with the College and like it here in Maryville very much.

name had registered at the Statler hotel in New York, giving an address in Washington. When investigators checked on the Washington address, however, it turned out to be a vacant lot.

Finally, treasury agents traced the telegrams to Dr. Louis Marks, head of the giant Publicker distilling firm in Philadelphia. The tip that Dr. Marks might be "A. R. Reed" came from Commissioner Mealey, who got to wondering why "A. R. Reed" wanted to send Kennedy a Collie dog. Then he remembered that Dr. Marks was fond of Collies.

Dr. Marks, incidentally, was fined $20,000 and given a suspended jail sentence last year for concealing German assets in the United States during the war. But he is now back in the distilling business and took a peculiar way to embarrass rather than reward a retiring and faithful public servant.

Store windows soon will be filled with Christmas things—keeping the home buyers burning.

Primary Pupils Take 'Pets' Unit

Miss Stella Martin's first grade class at Eugene Field has been studying pets.

Their study, which began as soon as they became oriented into school life, included care, types of homes, and uses of pets. They also held a discussion on their own pets.

To accompany this unit of study, they did freehand cuttings, drew and colored other pictures, and heard stories and poetry about pets. "At present they are becoming more conscious of their surroundings," Miss Martin stated. "Drawings have been made of cattails and various autumn flowers."

The instructor, who confided that she really enjoys instructing first graders, said that she has worked with this age group ever since she began her teaching career.

In this class there is one set of twins, Barbara and Beverly Logan. These blond girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Logan.

Newcomers Get Friendly Idea Of M-ville Hi

Four new students from scattered areas have come to MHS and are forming new friendships with oldtimers.

A freshman with plenty of pep and vitality comes to us from St. Patrick's school. She is black-haired, blue-eyed Shirley Framp-ton.

She ranks chorus as her favorite class although she is usually found spending her spare time reading, or with her hobby, picture post cards.

Two chief weaknesses of Shirley's are—fried chicken and "Simple Melody" by Bing and Gary Crosby.

The fact that she was named a probable prospect for freshman class queen, is proof that Shirley is fitting well into Maryville high school atmosphere, which she expresses as "friendly."

Attractive, auburn haired, hazel eyed Gloria Lowery came here from Columbus, Ohio.

There she participated in band, chorus, cheerleading, symphony, Y. Teens, Girl Scouts, Pep Club and was a majorette. These took up a good share of her spare time.

Gloria's "pet peeve" is being called "Red" and her favorite food is chocolate ice cream. She rates "My Foolish Heart" played by Vaughn Monroe as her top record. "Feeling at home already" was one of Gloria's many statements as to why she liked Maryville High.

To Maryville from Parnell came Bernard Welch, junior. Bernard is six foot-two inches tall, has flashing green eyes, brown hair, and likes the school spirit of the MHS students.

He chooses shop as his favorite class, while he claims football and basketball as the sports he likes best. Being a 4-H club member and collecting stamps take up some of Bernard's spare time.

Lovely Joyce "Jo" Goeders, one of the sophomore class candidates for queen of the Maryvillian, transferred this year from Mason City, Ia.

This charming coed has light brown hair and expressive green eyes.

"Tops" for Jo in school is English. After school hours, however, she will probably be found playing the piano, dancing, watching a football game, or listening to her favorite "platter" by Frankie Laine, "Sunny Side of the Street."

Jo shows enthusiasm when speaking of MHS in saying: "It appeals to me very much here, and everyone is wonderful!"

An English scientist claims we are longer in the morning than in the evening. And much shorter on Friday than on Monday.

Attend Teachers Convention, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Oct. 12-14.

Bearcat Homecoming, Oct. 20-21.

Practical Tips On Speech Will Be Main Talk

The advantages of good, practical speech for teachers and their pupils will be the theme of Dr. Charlotte G. Wells, director of the speech and hearing clinic at the University of Missouri, when she talks on "Yet Words Do Well," at the general assembly of the teachers convention, Friday, October 13.

Dr. Wells, is widely recognized as an authority on speech handicaps and their correction. She has become favorably known in various communities throughout Missouri since she came here in 1946 for her work in the mobile clinics which the University sends out to examine and aid speech-handicapped school children.

She is popular with the many University students on the campus who have sought her aid and who appreciate her sympathetic and patient efforts in helping them overcome speech handicaps. Miss Wells was born in Omaha, Nebraska. She was graduated from Omaha's North High School and received a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in Education from the University of Nebraska in 1931. Entering the teaching profession immediately, Miss Wells taught drama, public speaking, and English in the North Platte, (Neb.) High School until 1937, and also taught during summer sessions at the University of Wisconsin in 1934-35-36. She was appointed a graduate assistant at Wisconsin in 1937-38 and received a Master's degree from that university in 1938.

Studied at Wisconsin Miss Wells was awarded a Rockefeller Fellowship in radio education at Wisconsin University for 1938-39, and a summer session fellowship in the same foundation in 1938 to study in the Radio Education Workshop at Sarah Lawrence College in New York State. She was made supervisor of the Speech Clinic at the University of Wisconsin in 1939 and received her Doctor of Philosophy degree from that university in 1941.

Dr. Wells had already received considerable experience in clinical work, having served for three summers as Director of the Speech Training Center set up by the Wisconsin Department of Education and the University of Wisconsin for cleft palate children of the State, in addition to her other work. She also served during summers as an instructor and visiting lecturer at Wisconsin.

Lecturer at Smith College She was appointed an instructor

In 1941 and later assistant professor at Mt. Holyoke College, serving until 1945, and also served during 1943-44, as visiting lecturer at Smith College. In 1945 she went to Stanford University in California as an assistant professor and served there until she joined the faculty of the University of Missouri in 1946.

Dr. Wells' work is her main interest, but she does have at least one hobby—fishing. While she is particularly adept at bait casting, and only slightly less experienced at fly casting, and has caught pike and muskie in Wisconsin's lakes, Miss Wells admits that she also enjoys spending a warm summer afternoon at the edge of a creek or pond with her heels dug into the soft bank and a fishing worm on her hook beckoning for perch or crapple.

California Guest Leaves

Mrs. A. J. Schrier of Santa Ana, Calif., who spent three weeks visiting at the home of her son, John K. Schrier and family of near Maryville, with her mother, Mrs. Emma Kutach of Savannah, 90 years of age, and with other relatives and okay with women.

friends, left Sunday for her home. Mrs. Schrier made the trip to Kansas City by plane and also her return trip was by plane from Kansas City. She was taken to the airport by Mr. and Mrs. Schrier.

People like to see themselves in print, according to a newspaper reporter. And either silk or satin is age, and with other relatives and okay with women.

Sisson Loan and Title Closes Its Doors After 85 Years

The Sisson Loan and Title Company announces the sale of its insurance department to the Jackson Insurance Agency, to take effect as of October 1, 1950. At the same time, this company discontinues active participation in the fields of abstracts and loans as well. With the closing of their doors ends a business which had its beginnings in 1865 and which has been in its present location all or most of that time. In that year Dr. P. H. Talbot, with A. P. Morehouse and M. G. M. Roseberry, began operation under the name of Talbot & Company.

dealing mostly in real estate; it continued so until the death of Dr. Talbot, when it became Morehouse & Roseberry.

Arrived by Stage Coach

During this time a young veteran of the Civil War had come to Maryville arriving by stage-coach from St. Joseph which was then the terminal of the steam-railroad line going west. Nathaniel Sisson had served through the four years of the Civil War as brigade-bugler on the staff of General Capthart, and carried with him as a prized memento

Eight Nodaway Men Honored For Soil Conservation Work

Eight Nodaway county men were honored Thursday for their soil conservation activities during the past year at a luncheon given in Jefferson City by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

The men, who won second place for the county in state-wide competition, comprise the county governing board for its soil district and three farmers of the county who have done outstanding work under the board's direction.

Three Farmers Honored

The three farmers who were honored for their work are Guy Cooper, Sheridan; Vincent Lager, Clyde and Earl Davis, Graham. Only Davis was able to attend the recognition program.

Members of the governing board honored were Fletcher Dalbey, sr., Burlington Junction, chairman; A. C. Ausherman county agent, secretary; Vincent Spire, Parnell; Homer Stallin, Bernard; and George B. Cobb, Sheridan. Stallin and Ausherman could not attend the dinner.

Everett Winter, Omaha, vice-president of the Mississippi Valley Development Association, paid tribute to the Nodaway county group, the first-place winners of Clay county; and the Cape Girardeau county group, which won third place, in the main address of the program.

True Master Farmers

Winter said we should think of the soil "as the greatest friend that man ever had or ever will have. I like to think of men who treat their land with true tenderness and respect as the true master farmers. It

Those early years saw him working first as a country school-teacher, then as carpenter and cabinet-maker and finally surveying at night. He was hired by a bridge-construction firm in St. Joseph and sent to Texas to put a bridge across the Brazos River near Austin. In charge of the gang of bridge-builders, it was one of his duties to ride horse-back to St. Joseph, Missouri, get the pay-roll money and ride back to Texas with it in a leather pouch and pay off the men.

Returns to Maryville

He returned to Maryville, opened up a small general store, and married Miss Mary Hughes of Lexington, Missouri, who had been visiting her sister here, Mrs. George Shapp. About this time Mr. Roseberry decided to open up a law office for himself, and the firm name was changed from Roseberry to Morehouse & Sisson.

Fire insurance had been added to the other services covered by the firm; a contract dated 1888 shows Mr. Sisson as agent for the Fire Association of Philadelphia, a connection which has been maintained through all the succeeding years. It was about this time that the abstract business was started. Mr. Sisson perfected a system which has since become known as the American System of Abstracts, and started a line of records which are the most complete in the county today.

Morehouse Became Governor

Politics called Mr. Morehouse to the governor's chair in Jefferson City; the Spanish-American War was ended and another young war veteran was ready to enter business. The firm name changed from Morehouse & Sisson to N. Sisson & Son, with Paul Sisson entering into partnership with his father. In 1904 the firm incorporated with Nathaniel Sisson as president, Tom Hughes as vice-president, Paul Sisson as Secretary-treasurer, and Marvin Peery as assistant secretary.

In 1909 Miss Virginia Rose of Stanberry, Missouri, joined the staff as secretary of the president, and has remained with the firm as abstractor and later secretary-treasurer to the present time. The death of Mr. Hughes made a change in the officers of the corporation; in 1922 Lauris M. Eek entered the firm as secretary, and a few years later Nathaniel Sisson retired, and Paul Sisson became president.

Mr. Eek Resigned

In 1925 Mr. Eek resigned to become head of the Department of Commerce and Business Administration at the then Northwest State Teachers College here; Miss Rose became Secretary, and in 1930, on the resignation of Mr. Peery, became secretary-treasurer. Paul Sisson died in 1940; and his sister, Donna Sisson Eek, became president of the firm, with Miss Rose the secretary-treasurer. This summer Miss Rose retired. With the founder's two grandsons, Nathaniel Sisson Eek and Lauris Martin Eek, Jr., both in military service, the line of business succession breaks; and another pioneer business becomes a thing of the past.

Consumer Credit At All Time High

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The American buying public ran its credit tab to an all-time high of $20,979,000,000 in August, the Federal reserve Board reported today.

The record figure for consumer credit was reached a month before the government put on controls to slow installment-plan buying.

Rush For Goods

Debt incurred by time-buying alone accounted for $13,015,000,000 of the overall total, and itself stood at a new high itself as result of the rush for war-enhanced goods.

Overall consumer credit jumped $614,000,000 in August after an unprecedented $660,000,000 increase in July's $500,000,000 record.

Reimposed Controls

On September 18 the federal reserve board reimposed controls on installment credit. On autos, it required a one-third downpayment and 21-month payoff, and on major appliances 15 per cent down and an 18-month payoff.

The August rise was spurred by the post-Korea buying rush, which quieted down in the latter part of the month.

Indications are that both total consumer credit and installment-plan debt for September will show new record highs again.

First Grade Folks Do Creative Art

Much creative art work has been done by Mrs. Wayne Crawford's first grade class.

The children have worked with tempera paints, colored chalk, and crayons.

Stated Mrs. Crawford, "Individual expression of thought in this work is interesting."

"During their reading readiness period, they have renewed acquaintances with nursery rhymes and rhythm games and have worked on picture story progression, developing eye movements, and picture interpretation," she explained.

These beginners have a "fall table" on which they place a collection of things found in the fall.

A birthday party in honor of Sharon Giles' sixth birthday was held September 22. Sharon's mother, Mrs. H. R. Giles, served refreshments to the pupils.

Each boy and girl has made a picture which has been sent to Patty Mattison, one of their classmates, who is ill in the hospital.
